DRILLING AND BLASTING

- We are drilling holes into rock after careful surveying and developing a plan these holes are carefully loaded with explosives.
- The explosives are detonated, causing the rock to fracture and crumble.
- We remove the blasted rock called mucking, when all the blasted rock is removed we restart the surveying process all over again.
- We ensure that the exercise is done safely and also achieves the required quantity of broken rock at the foot of working face, and which is fragmented into working rock pieces without excessive micro fracturing.
